THE COLUMBIAS WIN.

Result of the Four-Oared Race on the River Yesterday.

The Question of Superiority Settled-Interest Shown in the Contest,

At the September regatta the Columbia Boat club felt great regret at not being able to participate in the senior four-oared race for they were satisfied that their crow would make an excellent showing, and then, too, they wanted to meet the crew of the Potomres in that race, Owing to the nonarriv 1 of their boat they were obliged to th y could have won, and as the Potoma were the victors a challenge was sent to the inn ars, which resulted in the race of yesteru., ahich was, perhaps, the finest ever rowed

No contest on the Potomac has excited more interest than this race between the Columbias and the Potomaes, and the crowd that witnessed it exceeded in numbers that which was in attendance during a large portion of the last regatts. The boat houses of both clubs were crowded with ladies, who were as active partisans as the members themselves. The upper course was the one selected, the start being made from a point near the up river landing of the Columbias and extending down the Virginia side of the three sisters, through the Academic Indian with the family consists.

the Virginia side of the three sisters, through the Aqueduct bridge, with the finish opposite the Potomae boat house.

The judges at the finish were Mr. Trescott for the Potomaes, Mr. W. A. Smith for the Columbias, and Mr. Richard Pairo, of the Analostan, dropped the flag.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the tug Fannie M. Gilbert, having on beard the referce, Mr. W. A. McKenny; Mr. A. Galt, the timer; Austin Herr, Samuel Wheatley, H. L. Gibson, Cropley, a few representatives of all the beat clubs, and representatives of the daily press, steamed from the Potomae boat house to the point of starting.

clubs, and representatives of the daily press, steamed from the Potomac boat house to the point of starting.

Both crows were found to be in position, but some little delay was made on account of the drifting of the starting boats. This matter was soon adjusted, and the start was made. Both crows were closely watching the referee, and as the word "go" was given the oars splashed into the water and the boats sprang along the course. The Potomacs took the water first and darled away with a forty-eight stroke, the Columbias pulling at forty-two. The slight advantage gained by the Potomacs by taking the water first was soon overcome by the Columbias, who pulled with a steady, sweeping stroke, which soon brought them even with their antagonists and then enabled them to slowly creep ahead. The advantage thus gained was maintained throughout the entire race, bringing them in winners by about a length and a half, in 9m. 22 1-5s. The Potomacs kept up their quick stroke during the entire race, but it was jerky and uneven, while the Columbias pulled in beautiful form, their movements being machine-like in their uniformity and regularity.

The Potomacs cheered wildly at the start and lost ground on that account, but they and a spiendid spurt just before reaching

The Potomacs cheered wildly at the start and lost ground on that account, but they made a splendid spurt just before reaching the bridge, which they maintained to the finish. Their time was 9m.27s.

As the crews appeared this side of the bridge the crowds upon the shore sent up cheer after cheer, and when the result was known the wildest excitement prevailed at the Columbia beat house. Ellis Ward, the trainer of the Columbias, as he stepped from his beat, in which he had watched the race, was seized by the enthusiastic Columbias, and carried on their shoulders to the beat house, where he was warmly congratulated by the where he was warmly congratulated by the large number present.

As the winning crew, which consisted of Nute, stroke; Kintner, No. 3; Condrup, No. 2, and Wade bow, rowed back to their boat house they were greeted with the wildest applause, the ladies waving their handkerchiefs, parasols, and gloves, and clapping their little hands with a much enthusiasm as their male

As the Potomac crew—Frazer stroke, Baker No. 3, Ryan No. 2, and McKinney bow, pulled in they were warmly applauded for the splendid effort they had made, and sympathized with that they were not successful.

The prizes, which will consist of four gold medals, to cost $25 cach, for the members of the winning crew, and a banner to its club, the total cost to be not more than $150, will not be awarded for some weeks yet, as their manufacture will require considerable time.
This race seems to settle the superiority of the four-oared crew, and its result was a four-oared crew, and its result was a matter of surprise to a great number. The Potomac crew had the prestige of their success in the last regatta, and they, as well as their friends, were thoroughly confident of success. The Columbias, while believing that their crew would win, were chary of beasting, and although ready to secont between and although ready to accept bets, were not being estimated at $20,000.

In the matter of bets it is believed that more money changed hands after this race than any that has ever taken place on the Potomac, the total amount of money wagered being estimated at $20,000.

One happy Columbian said that he had won five hats and $75, and a young government clerk showed a roll of bills aggregating over $700 as the result of his shrewdness in placing his money. On the other hand, there were many long faces worn by those whose overconfidence had induced them to risk more than they could afford and one young source. than they could afford, and one young man said he would have to hypothecate his salary for the next three months in order to get saulted by Her Father and Brother. A lively and exciting incident occurred near the Baltimore and Ohio depot about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The principals were John Dade, sr., John Dade, jr., and J. F. Brown, all colored. It appears that Brown, who is a rather hands ome and well dressed mulatto, who possesses some money and a profusion of visible jewelry, went to Dade's house during the absence of father and son, and induced Miss Nannie Dade, who is rather pretty and stylish in appearance, to take a walk with him. She consented, and after a short ramble the pair entered a place on C street, near the depot, which is presided over by an old colored woman named Rose. The pair were seen to enter the place by a relative of pair were seen to enter the place by a relative of the Dades, who made post haste to the capitol, where the girl's father is employed, and told him of the circumstance. The indignant parent at once supmoned his sense who is where the girl's father is employed, and told him of the circumstance. The indignant parent at once summoned his son, who is a barber, and proceeded to the objectionable house, reaching it just in time to find the pair making their exist. Father and son rushed up and confronted the couple. Harsh language followed. Brown drew a revolver. The younger Dade picked up a cobble stone, and, being joined by his father, seized Brown took his pistol away from him and hung on to him until officers were summoned, who escerted the gay lotharie to the eighth precinct station house, where a charge of carprecinct station house, where a charge of car rying concealed weapons was preferred against him. The affair has created a profound sen-sation in upper colored circles, as Miss Dade, who is an accomplished musician, was promi-nently identified with several societies and the Ebenezer M. E. church, of which she is organist, and Sunday school superintendent.

Church of the Holy Cross. About ten years Rov. Dr. J. H. Harrold, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, bought the ground upon which the present church building was subsequently erected for church outlaing was subsequently erected for $500, and a few days ago his congregation re-fused an offer of $55,000 from a well known real estate dealer for this property, which is situated on Massachusetts avoutte, near the fitewart mansion. It is proposed to build noxt year upon this fine site an edifice equaled by few church structures in the south, and which is to cost $100.000.

few church structures in the south, and which is to cost $100,000.

Under the guidance of its elequent rector, Dr. Harrold, this parish has increased from a vere handful nine years age to over eighty immunicants at present, while at the same to a free church has been maintained. The chuch choir is an excellent one, comprising Misses Mary Harrold, soprano: Sarah Tiee, alto, and Messrs, Charles Harrold, basso, and W. Quinn, tenor, with Mrs. G. Shafer as organist. Gregorian music, in accord with that of the high church of England, is rendered.

CORNER OF A CONTROL OF THE CONGREGA FOR ALL OF THE CONGREGATION OF THE CONGREGA FOR ALL OF THE CONG

To the Hon. Chief Justice Cartters, Hon. A. J. Ches-well, Bev. Dr. Rankin, and others:
Gentlement i am in receipt of your letter of the ath iostant. I feel myself much honored by your kind remembrance. The delivery of a lecture in Washington, treating of any branch of the national government, may be quite like "carrying coals to Newcastle" still it will be a pleasure to submit my lecture in regard to the senate to an audenose of my "townsmen." S. I gladly comply with your suggestion, and will deliver the locture, "Ten Years Among the Senators." at the Congregational Church on the evening of Friday, the 12th instant. Hoghing that the date may most time convenience of each and all of you, I remain your obligediriend, oocs if NEW THEATRE COMIQUE
